

UNIKKO

Acoustic pendant

Design by: Amsell Berlin Design

A unique sound-absorbing sculpture hanging free in space.

Unikko is made of hemp sheets. Hemp as material is one of the most useful sustainable materials nature has to offer and that in it self makes it really interesting to work with. Unikko is available in different sizes which you can play with and place in many different ways. They can be hanged in one size symmetrical and close to each other to build a soft organic inner roof and they can be hanged unsymmetrical in different length for an airy impression. It fits perfectly in public places such as museums, auditoriums, restaurants, libraries etc. with a high ceiling that often needs design aimed both for eyes and ears.
